JSNA update

Jon Hobday – Consultant in Public Health

Helen Smith – Public Health and Social Care Intelligence Manager
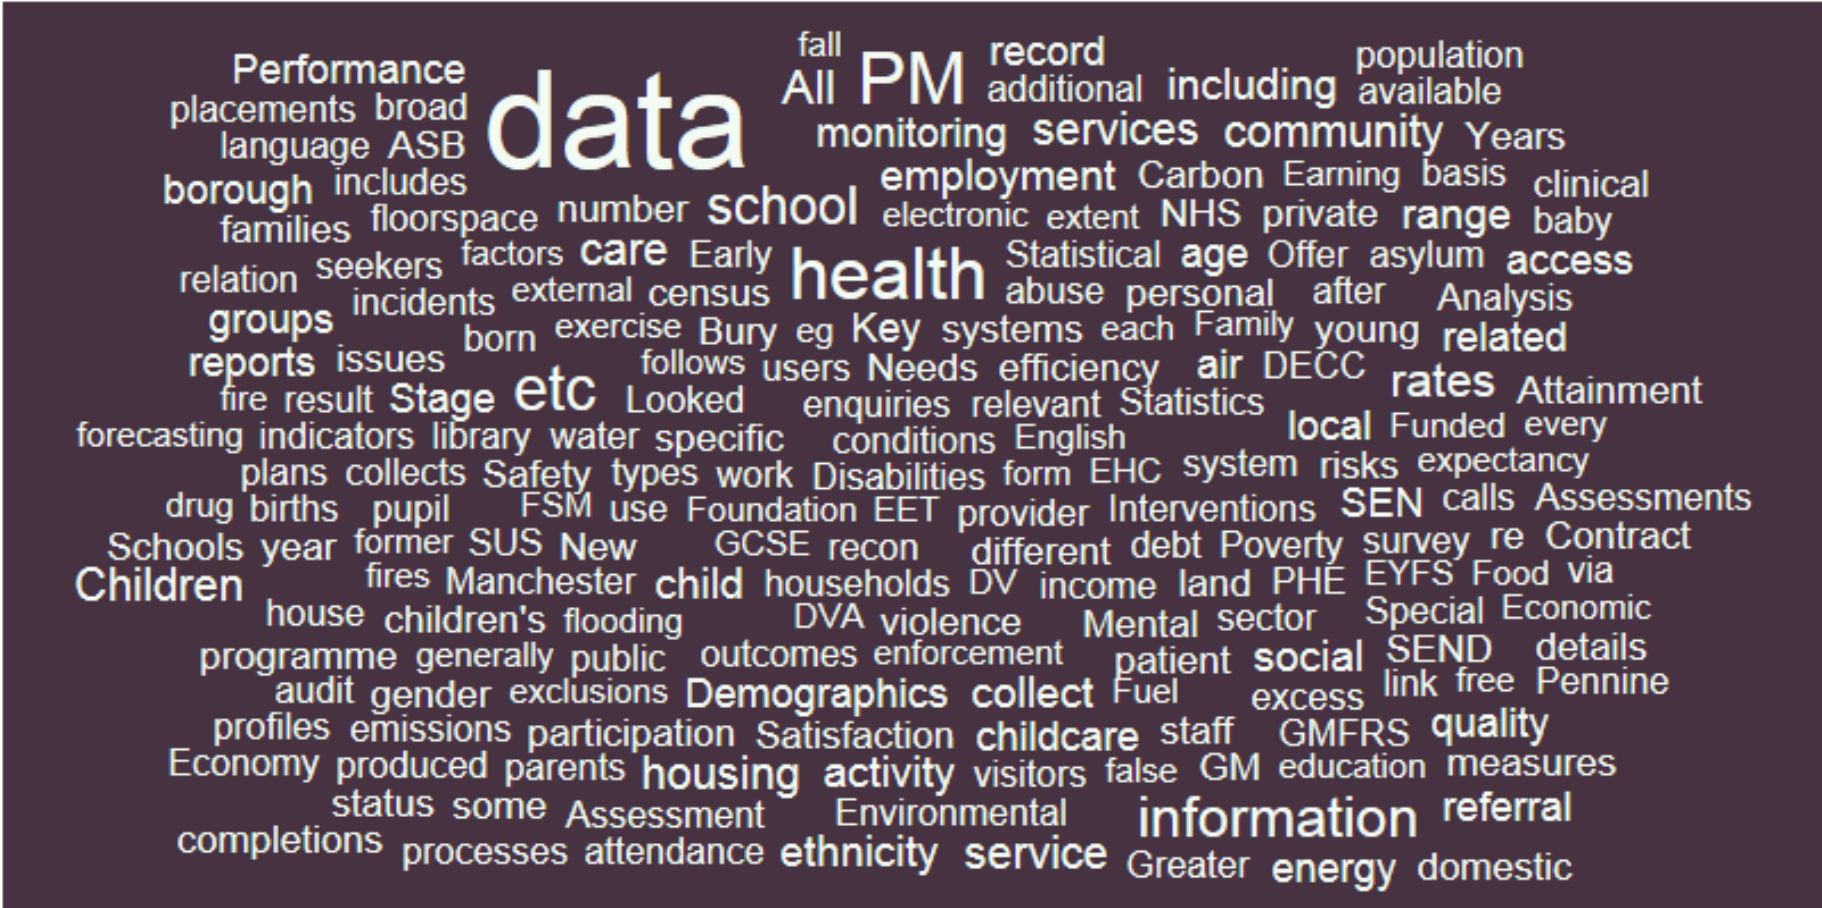

Background

- Bury's JSNA was last refreshed in 2013
- 99 Page PDF sat on Council website
- Development underway to produce a dynamic, accessible product that shares intelligence to support commissioners and decision makers

JSNA Consultation

• Consultation carried out in October

1) Purpose / function (56)
2) Data audit (31)

• 70% of respondents had used the JSNA to inform their work

3

Information Collected

Information Required

The Bury JSNA is.......

A network.......
With intelligence leads from across Team Bury coming together to share data and intelligence and commit to helping partners and support commissioners. This underpins the JSNA and will help build the resource repository within the website. The network will enable new and facilitate existing conversations between organisations.

A website.....
Which provides an accessible resource for publication of products from across Team Bury. To include standard chapters and bespoke pieces of research. Linking to assets within the Bury Directory, the content will become richer over time as the JSNA develops. The website will be publicly accessible and provide opportunities to engage with the local voice through feedback mechanisms.

An evidence base.....
To demonstrate improved outcomes for Bury residents. The JSNA website will inform commissioners and support decision makers to make informed choices for Bury whilst the JSNA network provides the environment to share best practice. Joining this up with the assets within the Bury Directory will create a holistic view of services and outcomes in Bury.

An opportunity....
For commissioners and decision makers to come together and have a conversation and to influence and inform intelligence and research through a work planning process. Workshops will be held with commissioners and the Health and Wellbeing Board to set down priorities and work requests.

6

JSNA

- Website (with cloud based database)
- Exchange of data, information, reports
- Standard chapters and documents
- Linked to Bury assets / Directory
- Iterative process using feedback to support work plans and future commissioning needs and also to capture community engagement
- Open to the public – but also user restrictions
- Rebranded

Why a quality JSNA is important

- Current climate of reduced capacity both in time and money
- Helps all partners use best intelligence to allow them to make best use of resources
- Exchange of valuable intelligence and information
- Will need commitment to ensure that the content of the JSNA will become richer over time

8

Progress to date

• Extensive consultation both within the council and with key stakeholders

• Operational group have come together (development of TOR)

• Started working with our IT provider to develop the look and feel

• Working closely with social development team to ensure it fits and compliments the Bury Directory

Bury
COUNCIL

Timelines

- Feb - Soft launch
- Feb to June, ongoing development and review refining the systems, content, look and feel to meet needs of all the key stakeholders
- July - All the processes for continuously updating the JSNA developed plus all the key data sets uploaded
- August – Established a clear plan of specific pieces of work and analysis to be completed over the next 12 months